INSTALLATION OF EASTERN STAR OFFICERS.

Work done by Retiring Matron, Mrs. Stevens—Buffet Lunch Served at the Close.

Sachem chapter, No. 67, Order of the Eastern Star, had out a full attendance at its regular meeting Wednesday evening at the Buckingham hotel, which was the regular time for the installation of officers for the ensuing term. This was impressively carried out by the retiring matron, Maude Stevens, assisted as grand marshal by Flora J. Fitzpatrick.

The following is the list of officers: Worthy matron, Dorothea W. Balcorn; worthy patron, Andrew B. Kingsbury; associate matron, Annie L. Rawson; secretary, Lottie B. Williams; treasurer, Annie E. Woodman; conductress, Esther H. Blinn; associate conductress, Emily E. Dubeare; chaplain, J. Annella Stetson; marshal, Louise J. Standish; organist, Mabel H. Dibble; Adah, Mary E. Stevens; Ruth, Susie Park; Esther, Sarah J. Moffitt; Martha, Dorothy C. Durfee; Electa, Emily F. Williams; warder, Elizabeth Kinsman; sentinel, Orrin M. Price.

The new worthy matron, who has been a member since January, 1908, and started her work in the chairs by serving at Martha in the next year, took her place with a splendid officer, some pleasing remarks, in which she pointed out lines of effort for the coming term, reminding them that they were entering their sixth year with a membership of about 120. She appointed two committees—auditing, Maude L. Stevens; Gertrude L. Rawson; Elizabeth C. Fitzpatrick; visiting, Elizabeth Kinsman, Annie L. Rawson, Louise J. Standish, Mary E. Stevens.

The death of one member this week, Mrs. Lucy Haymon, was reported, and the usual action taken and a delegation from the chapter will attend the funeral.

An enjoyable buffet lunch was served in the post hall after the business meeting was over, this part of the evening being in charge of the committee, comprising Mrs. Flora J. Fitzpatrick, Mrs. Mary M. Stevens and W. R. Balcorn. The retiring board of officers had a group picture taken by flashlight.

OFFICER TO COLLECT POLL AND MILITARY TAXES

Recommendations of Tax Commissioner Will Be Incorporated Into a Bill for Legislature.

To a discussion of the best method of collecting the state military tax was devoted the entire morning session of the Mayors' association of Connecticut at its midwinter session in Hartford, Wednesday. Mayor Foster of Rockville presiding. Tax Commissioner William H. Corbin was present by invitation and he explained his theory of solving the troublesome problem. In his opinion the present system of divided official responsibility in towns and cities is fatal to the collection of the poll tax. It was easy enough to collect from property holders, but with the non-property holder the trouble was increased. He favored an intermediate date, between January and October, for a thorough enrollment by an official selected by the mayors of cities and the selectmen in towns. If a law can be passed permitting the towns to adopt this method, the poll tax collector can make a house to house canvass. His lists should be filed with the boards of relief and for one month be subject to corrective changes. Then the bills should be sent to the property owners to be turned over to the officer for collection, he to be remunerated simply, either by salary or commission, or both.

Mayor Armstrong of New London said he had given the subject much consideration and had arrived at the conclusion that the legislature should be asked to repeal the tax law. He said that most of the people subject to the tax were away from home and again it would cost the state about as much to collect them as the income would amount to. At the close of the discussion it was voted to have a bill framed along the lines outlined by the tax commissioner, making it permissible for the towns to appoint an officer to collect the poll and military taxes.

NO PARISH HOUSE DISCUSSION.

Matter Is Yet in the Distant Future and Only One of the Needs of Christ Church to Be Talked Over.

There was no meeting of the women of Christ church on Wednesday afternoon, but at the weekly meeting this week there will be a discussion on needs of the parish and how to make it grow. There are many things in the list of needs, among which is a parish house, about which there will probably be some discussion, but there is no definite movement for it as yet, and no plans or funds. Although needed, a parish house for Christ church is yet in the distant future, states one prominent in the church.

AT BROADWAY THEATER.

Life of An Actress.

The Fetherberg stock company returned to the Broadway theater Wednesday for the remainder of the week and in the evening played The Life of an Actress in a manner which called for much applause. The play is a comedy, and was notably clever, and as Nan Warrington, Miss Schaefer was a dashing adventuress. Herbert, Jean Barrymore, Fern Foster and Louis Morrison carried their roles well supported by a well selected cast.

The specialties were a pleasing feature, including illustrated songs by James Blackmore a song and tales by Bert Walter, with hoop rolling by Charles Hammond and cornet solos by Marie McNeil.

This afternoon the company plays Pinkerton Detective, and tonight the bill is The Millionaire's Revenge.

Patrons of Husbandry.

The regular meeting of Norwich range, No. 172, Patrons of Husbandry, was held Wednesday evening in Pythian hall. In the absence of Worthy Master Woodbury O. Rogers, who is attending the state grange meeting at Hartford, Overseer Jacob Gallup presided.

In addition to routine business a resolution of thanks was presented to Henry M. Colt for his gift to the grange of a burnt-wood jewel case, and a copy of the resolutions was also ordered spread upon the records. Friday evening, January 22, was selected as a special date for the installation of officers.

In the lecturer's hour an interesting talk was given by Nathan E. Whittington, upon a trip to Washington, D. C., from which he has just returned.

At New London Banquet.

President F. W. Cary and Secretary Henry W. Tibbitts of the Norwich Board of Trade were guests of the New London Business Men's association at a banquet in the Hotel Mohican at New London Wednesday evening. President Cary being one of the speakers.

The worthy matron, Dorothea W. Balcorn, was hostess at the banquet. The guests included: Mrs. W. R. Balcorn, Mrs. A. B. Kingsbury, Mrs. A. B. Rawson, Mrs. L. B. Williams, Mrs. A. E. Woodman, Mrs. E. H. Blinn, Mrs. E. Dubeare, Mrs. J. Annella Stetson, Mrs. L. J. Standish, Mrs. M. H. Dibble, Mrs. A. M. Stevens, Mrs. S. Park, Mrs. E. S. Moffitt, Mrs. M. C. Durfee, Mrs. E. F. Williams, Mrs. E. Kinsman, Mrs. O. M. Price.

Get Into One Of Our Chamois Vests

They are the best work clothes that will protect you against sudden changes in the weather, from extreme colds. To protect the chest when suffering from lung trouble, nothing is quite so effective as a good Chamois Vest.

We have them of beautiful designs which can be worn as a common vest—they are lined with flannel and can be laundered the same as a piece of woolen cloth. We have other designs to wear over the undervest and these will last several seasons, and are certainly most effective in protecting the body and in preventing sudden colds, especially in long cold drives. They are worn by many people.

Letter Box For Mail.

The new regulations of the postoffice department request that patrons have a suitable letter box or receptacle for mail matter at their place of business or residence, and if the same is not provided that a written order be filed authorizing the placing of a mail matter under the door or the like. In the disbursement of these instructions a certain number of letters were sent against the letter carrier. Postmaster Caruthers calls attention to these regulations and requests that all comply as soon as practicable.

State Grange Association.

The annual meeting of the Connecticut Grange association was held at Hartford, Wednesday. Among those present was O. L. Pultz of Lebanon.

ADDITION TO NORWICH COURT HOUSE.

Showing North and East Sides of the Three-Story Annex on Broadway.

If it was possible to go ahead with the plastering and inside woodwork on the addition to the courthouse, the building could be finished and made ready for occupancy in six or seven weeks. This work is being held up for the installation of the steam heating, it being necessary to have heat before the remainder of the work can be finished. The steam fitters being at work now.

The exterior work on the building has been completed, the windows are all in, but there remains some grading to be done in the yard. At the rear and on the north side a fine cut stone wall has been built, but the ground will have to be graded and the front in shape.

The ground floor of the building will be used for the common pleas court room, with offices for the judge, jury, clerk and other side rooms, while the second floor will be occupied by the law library, there being an entrance from the main floor of the city hall through an arched doorway. The third floor will be an addition to the town hall, which will nearly double its size and mean the changing of the plat-form somewhat from where it is at the present time. The French roof on the addition is where the town hall is located. A description, with dimensions of the building, has previously been given. The ground floor is of granite, while the building above is of pressed brick, the roof being slated on the sides. The architecture follows the style of the main building.

But for the lack of heat the annex would have been finished by this time. Contractor Williams having the material in the building and stored elsewhere for the completion of the job. The plastering will be the next work to be done, after which will follow the woodwork and the flooring, only the temporary floors being in at present. The building is erected jointly by the city, town and county, being brought about by the need of room for a law library, after which the needs for increased room in the town hall for large caucuses and town meetings were advanced and the advisability of having a separate court room was that the common pleas and superior courts might be in session here without interfering with each other.

The law library books are now in the office of the clerk of the superior court and the clerk of the common pleas court, while many more are stored for lack of room. The change from there to the new library and the removal of the common pleas clerk's office into the new quarters, which will be conveniently fitted up and equipped with a fireproof vault for the records and papers, will make available an additional room for the superior court clerk. The contract price for the building was $28,957, while the total cost of the necessary land and buildings and furnishings, it is not thought, will bring the total amount to $50,000.

HOW "UNCLE GEORGE" SPENT CHRISTMAS NIGHT.

Four Generations Gathered About One Tree at "Frisco."

The San Francisco Evening Globe of Dec. 26 had the following regarding "Uncle George" Bromley: "Uncle George" Bromley spent Christmas night with all his living descendants gathered around him at the home of his son, George A. Bromley, 650 Broderick street. The youngest was twenty of them—two sons, two daughters, four grandsons and ten granddaughters and two great-grandchildren. The youngest grandchild, Kate, is just 10. The united ages of all Uncle George's descendants is 530 years.

They do not call him "Uncle George," but "grandpa," and he has grown accustomed to that name, with fourteen grandchildren of another pioneer, the late Dr. H. F. Wakelies; Mrs. Mary Smith, with her daughter, Marion; Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Bromley of Berkeley, with their children, Miss Hattie Bromley of San Diego, Rector, Sadie and Irma; Mr. and Mrs. F. Bromley Jansen, with their son Fred and daughter Marion; Miss Sarah M. Williamson, and her state grange meeting at Hartford, Overseer Jacob Gallup presided.

CHRIST'S WAY OF REACHING MEN

Gospel Services at the First Baptist Church.

The third midweek gospel service was held Wednesday evening at the Third Baptist church. Interest deepens as the evenings pass by and the services are found to be worth while by those who attend. After a devotional service of praise and prayer the pastor, Rev. W. F. Thayer, spoke on Christ's Methods of Reaching Men and of Teaching His Disciples.

It is the duty of the Christian through Christ's spirit to save the unsaved, and it is the duty of the unconverted to be saved through Christ.

To Christ the Christian goes for methods to accomplish his mission and to Christ the unsaved must go for the way of salvation. We do not appreciate the power of the personal touch, teaching one at a time is the way of reaching all in time. Christ recognizes the power of the individual, and one has some service none but he can render.

The preacher tonight is Rev. E. W. Potter, pastor of the Jewett City Baptist church.

FIVE HUNDRED TOURNEY

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS FROM THE STATE.

This End of the State Well Represented at Meeting in Hartford.

The county commissioners from all over the state met at the Hotel Garde, Hartford, Wednesday, for an informal discussion of matters relating to the conduct of county business, county jails, interpretation of the license laws so as to have uniformity in the granting of liquor licenses, and also to discuss other matters which come before county commissioners. The president of the County Commissioners' association, John Wozniak, of Hartford, presided, and the secretary, E. T. Clark of Middlesex county, kept the minutes.

It has been the custom for the commissioners to have an annual meeting in the summer at the shore, and this is the first time they have had a meeting in the winter. After the informal talks dinner was served in the private dining room. Of the twenty-four commissioners in the state twenty were present, as follows:

Robert A. Potter of Bristol, P. E. Watkins of Manchester, George Miller of Meriden, Jacob D. Walter of Cheshire, James Goldes of Waterbury, Charles D. Noyes of Norwich, Benjamin Williams of Storrs, Richard W. Chadwick of Old Lyme, Whitman S. Mead of Greenwich, Simon Pease of Fairfield, John Brophy of the city of Hartford, Robert W. Case of Barkhamsted, Charles E. Chapman of Westbrook, Elwyn T. Clark of Hadram, Mayron K. Somers, Fred O. Vinton of Mansfield.
